Miners' Vote Favors Home Local in Coleman

Opinion Almost Evenly Divided on Abiliation With C.I.O. Organization, Saturday's Vote Indicates.

384 against and 362 in favor, with three spoiled ballots, was the tally in the vote taken at International and McGillivray mines on Saturday on the question: "Are you in favor of joining the United Mine Workers of America?"

The pit-head ballot resulted in almost 100 per cent of the mine workers recording their votes, only about twelve not being able to vote through sickness or absence.

An intensive effort for some time has been made to induce Coleman workers to affiliate with the U.M.W. of A. Moderate opinion counselled against it on the ground that the American organization had taken under its wing a number of the extremists who were prominent in the Communist organized strike in 1932. Following the breakdown of the strike, in which Harvey Murphy and John Stokulak were organizers, working for the Workers' Unity League, with which the Mine Workers Union of Canada was affiliated, Coleman miners organized as a home local under the name of Coleman Miners' Association.

Working agreements have been made at two-year intervals with the companies, the present agreement expiring in March 1939.

Executive officers of District 18 of the U.M.W. of A. are Robert Livett, president, well known in the Pass towns, and Angus Morrison, secretary, both of whom in earlier years worked in the Pass mines, and are generally well regarded.

Asked if he had any comment to make on the vote, Max Stigler, secretary of Coleman Miners' Association, replied he had nothing for publication.

Discussion among the workers, though not causing any outward demonstration, centred mainly on the radical element having been given representation in the councils of District 18 of the American organization.

SCODELLARO TO VANCOUVER LIONS

Pass hockey fans read with interest a C.P. despatch from Vancouver stating that Guy Patrick, owner of Vancouver Lions' professional hockey team, was considering signing "Duke" Scodellaro as goalkeeper for his team. "Duke," after residing a year at Trail was expected to be playing for the Smoke Eaters this season, having been ineligible last year. While playing for Coleman he made no secret of the fact that he wanted to go places in the hockey world and it seems he still retains that ambition. Should he make good, it will be only one jump to the N.H.L., as Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers, and Guy Patrick of the Lions do not believe in letting good hockey talent out of the family.

Sherman Parrish Lived Here Nearly Forty Years

Before The Railroad Was Completed, Had Taken Up Homestead Four Miles West of Townsite.

Fernie and Cranbrook may talk of their proposed 40th anniversary celebrations in 1938, in which Coleman may perhaps feel somewhat out of the picture, as this townsite was not laid out till 1903. But there is one inhabitant who can raise the flag and claim forty years' residence here.

Sherman Parrish, whose name has been honored by the Geographical Board of Canada by naming a creek after him (Parrish's Creek), came here possibly by chance. With a companion, he left the corn-growing state of Kansas for the Klondike gold fields. They came by saddle and pack horses. Highways there were none on the latter part of their journey. Reaching here, they rested for some time, and his companion received word from his home in Kansas that a relative or member of his family was seriously ill.

After discussing matters with Mr. Parrish, he decided to ride back to Kansas, and return in the spring. It was in November of 1898 that he left for the south, and fate decreed that he should not return, for after burying a relative, he himself was taken ill and never recovered.

The result was that Mr. Parrish filed on a homestead, making his application at the Dominion Lands Office at Lethbridge. He raised cattle and has continued to do so throughout the forty years. His mail was brought up the line by the railway crew, there being no post-offices in the Crow's Nest Pass when he first settled here. Not wishing to appear too inquisitive or personal in our enquiries, our interviewer hesitated to ask Mr. Parrish his age, but to judge from his appearance he would not appear to be 60 years old. Possibly a guessing

MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

Traffic Regulations Governed by By-Law Passed by Council.

A meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening with the following present: Mayor Pattinson; Councillors Allan, Antrobus, Borrowes and Haysom.

By-law No. 131 was given three readings whereby penalties will be imposed for non-observance of the "stop" signs erected this summer to reduce traffic hazards. The maximum fine is $100.

A grant of $15 was made to the musical festival at Blairmore. A letter being received asking that the taxes against the rink be remitted, the request was granted.

Report of the relief committee concerning certain cases was accepted. Total accounts passed amounted to $265.31, which included $240.00 as the final payment on the road surfacing work completed this summer, together with accounts and general current expenses, such as water, light, fuel, etc.

The meeting adjourned about 9.45 p.m.

contest on his age would provoke some fun. However, though he has experienced many ups and downs (mostly downs, he remarks) he looks remarkably well, and to converse with him one does not get the least impression of his having pioneered so long ago as 40 years. He has a sense of humor, and smiles when he tells of the days when the west was in the making, before Blairmore or Coleman were even dots on the map, and when the wind howled through the Crow's Nest Pass just as freely as it does today.

His home is a short distance north of the main highway four miles west. What changes he has seen, from the development of a pack trail to the coming of the railroad and later the improved automobile highway! All honor to the pioneers and to Sherman Parrish, the only one The Journal knows who has lived here for forty years without a break.

Burial of a Vault

This may seem odd. Burying a corpse is common-place, but burying a vault is news. It is the vault in which were formerly kept the school board's records. When they met in the old bank school, now demolished, to provide a place for safe keeping, a strong cement vault was built. Since the building has been torn down, the vault has stood out to view something like a concrete pill-box on the Western Front.

Fearing that dynamite blasts would do damage to nearby windows, and finding that sledge hammers made little impression in an attempt to break it down, it was decided to dig a hole eight feet deep and of sufficient length and width to decently inter it, as the undertaker (or is it "Merriman") would say. It is not likely that a farewell prayer will be breathed over the grave "where our hero we buried" nor a parting shot fired. Joe Lardinois for some days has been toiling away in the rocky soil and by the time this appears in print the burial should be completed. Every now and then the office staff as well as others in the vicinity cast a hurried glance to find out when the fateful moment arrives for the disappearance of the vault into its grave.

PRESENTATION TO W. FRASER BY HOCKEY EXECUTIVE

Meeting in the parish hall of St. Alban's church on Friday evening, the hockey executive and friends honored Mr. and Mrs. William Fraser, Jr., by presenting them with a piece of furniture in the form of a cabinet. For several years he has been a valued player on Canadians' team, and the presentation was made in appreciation of his services. It should have been made in the spring at the time of his marriage.

R. F. Barnes in pleasing manner made the presentation. Harry Gardner, president of the club, was chairman. The ladies served a very nice luncheon, and the evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. Assisting in the program were Max Frattin, violinist; Harry King, pianist; Fred Beddington and D. M. Waddington.

Keen Interest Shown In This Year's Program

Second Largest Number of Entries In History of Festival Movement—Competition Will Be Keen.

MAYOR PATTINSON who as president of the musical festival for 1937 will preside at the three days sessions next week. He has been an enthusiast in the festival movement since its inception in the Crow's Nest Pass in 1925.

Opening on Monday morning at 9 o'clock, the thirteenth annual festival will commence its three day sessions. The adjudicator, Mr. George Coutts, is organist and choirmaster of Chalmers United church, Vancouver, and conductor of Vancouver Little Symphony Orchestra. A distinguished violinist, in 1930 he won the governor-general's prize in the Willingdon Arts Competition for his sonata for violin and piano.

He will adjudicate one of his own compositions, "Italian Dance," a piano number, which will arouse particular interest.

There are 242 entries, states Mrs. Farmer, secretary, which is the second largest number on record. From Coleman, Grades 6, 7 and 8 will send a chorus of voices under Mrs. James Cousins. Competition in the high school choruses will be very keen, entries having been made by Pincher Creek, Fernie and Blairmore.

From Kermaria Convent, Pincher Creek, entries will include a rhythm band, action songs and a French choir. The sessions open on each of the three days at 9 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. There will be orchestral sessions every evening, and on Wednesday afternoon and evening Fernie and West Canadian Collieries bands will compete.

Reflection of Michel Fire Seen From Distance of 30 Miles

Returning from Calgary on Sunday night, Harry C. King, General Electric salesman, and Robert Pattinson, stated that for at least 30 miles before they reached Coleman, they saw the reflection of the fire at Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co.'s tipple at Michel.

At first they were under the impression that there must be an extra flare-up on the coke ovens in Coleman, but as they came nearer they saw that the reflection was from a distance west. The coke ovens at Michel were next thought of as being the cause of the fiery appearance of the sky. Reaching Coleman, they quickly discovered the disastrous nature of the fire raging at Michel, where it is reported the tipple and surface plant of the company has been almost completely destroyed, and that 490 workers will be thrown out of employment.

The westbound train which goes through Michel about an hour after midnight (Pacific time) was delayed for several hours, as the tipple crosses the railroad.

The high wind yesterday blew small pebbles so hard against windows it sounded like a machine gun rattling.

Seeding From The Skies

Introducing to the farmers of the prairie provinces, to say the least, is the information that in Soviet Russia grain and grass seed is being planted at the rate of 400 acres an hour by the use of aeroplanes and still more alluring is the suggestion that this method could "easily be used" to seed the broad fields of the wide open spaces in Western Canada.

Both information and suggestion were promulgated by J. A. Stiles, O.B.E., Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts in Canada and former Dean of Applied Science at the University of Fredericton, New Brunswick, at a recent luncheon meeting in Regina. He volunteered the additional information that this method of seeding grain as adopted in Russia has the advantage of making it possible to seed fields covered with snow or mired after rains.

While credence must be given to the Dean's statement that this practice has been, or is being, adopted in Russia, a good deal more information as to the conditions under which this operation is carried out and the results achieved therefrom before due weight could be given to his correlated suggestion that the Canadian west lends itself to this method of seeding grain, principally because of the flatness of the country "landings could be made easily."

On the face of it there must necessarily be many factors, other than ease of landing, before this system of seeding could be pronounced a feasible plan for the Western Canadian farmer as a general thing.

For instance, it would be interesting to know whether in Russia the method has been adopted only in one or two isolated instances where special circumstances and conditions combined to make it a feasible, economical and otherwise as, for example, on one of those large collective farms where the area is measured in square miles rather than in acres, and whether even on these huge farms the method is only in an experimental stage or was used as an emergency measure to speed up production in accord with a government quota.

It would be interesting, too, to know the results of the work carried on in Russia with an aeroplane travelling perhaps at 100 miles an hour or more blasting seed over the countryside in large quantities. Is it possible to broadcast seed in this manner from the fast travelling motor-propelled vehicle somewhere between earth and clouds without wasting large quantities of seed? Can grain seeded this way be distributed thinly and evenly as it can be by a horse-drawn or even a tractor-drawn drill?

These are some of the questions the Western Canadian farmer would like to have answered before he would be prepared to nod acquiescence to the good Dean's suggestion that such a method could easily be applied in this country.

And even if these questions were answered favorably to the plan and to the satisfaction of the interrogator, there are others which would have to be answered satisfactorily before the Western Canadian farmer could be expected to warmly espouse the Dean's somewhat novel suggestion.

It is obvious, for instance, that the average three quarter section or section farmer could not afford to purchase an aeroplane to seed his crop, for that would be the only agricultural operation for which it could be used, except perhaps to spray the fields with insecticide or poison bait. The cost would be prohibitive in proportion to the return, no matter how good the yield and how high the price of grain. If it is to be adopted, therefore, it would have to be a custom proposition, if the average farmer is to be able to avail himself of this method of seeding.

If, therefore, such a system of seeding is to be adopted, to be of benefit to the average farmer it would either necessitate its operation by a large number of farmers on a co-operative basis or by some private individual or corporation willing to run the risk of making what must necessarily be a substantial investment remunerative. If the latter, it might necessitate a charge for seeding out of proportion to the benefits derived from fast seeding when conditions are ideal for germination of seed scattered from the skies.

There are, of course, advantages which could be credited to the seeding of grain fields by aeroplane. The speed with which it could be done and the large acreage which could be covered in a few hours would make it possible to put in a lot of crop when soil and moisture conditions are most receptive for the seed, but the factors in query and perhaps others would have to be first answered favorably before such a method could become general practice in Western Canadian grain fields.

It is predictable that a great deal more information will have to be secured on this subject before the farmers of this country will take the chance of adopting Mr. Stiles' proposal.

Will Visit Provinces

So much of this Coronation year has been spent by the King in London that next year will be more or less devoted to the provinces. Tentative arrangements have been made for His Majesty to visit Nottinghamshire and Lancashire, probably in the spring, though no dates have been fixed, reports the Daily Sketch. There will also be a visit to the Duchy of Cornwall.

Freedom Of Speech

Sir Edward Beatty Makes Appeal Before Students At Queen's University

Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and chancellor of McGill University, told a convocation gathering at Queen's University that "I am appealing for freedom of thought and speech, but within the limits of accurate knowledge, sound logic, a sense of responsibility and the ordinary amenities of public life in a civilized community."

Principal speaker at the convocation, Sir Edward was recipient of an honorary LL.D. degree. He recalled his appointment as chancellor of Queen's in 1919 and the fact he was chancellor of both Queen's and McGill from 1921 to 1925.

University heads had been charged with attempting to limit freedom of speech and repressing liberty of thought, Sir Edward asserted in discussing the subject which formed the main part of his address. Nothing could be more untrue than the charges, he said.

"I have myself said, and I shall say again, that liberty of speech and thought are sacred, and nowhere is this truth more important than in the life of our universities," he continued. But Sir Edward contended there were limits within which these liberties may be exercised.

"It is equally foolish and equally wrong to proceed on the assumption that this freedom and these liberties do not carry with them the obligation of seeing that they are not destroyed by the intemperance and irresponsibility of us as individuals."

South Seas Mystery

Island Found Deserted Was Prolific Source Of Guano

The schooner Denys ran into a muggy South Seas mystery recently on a visit to Malden Island, 1,500 miles south of Hawaii.

A muggy, prolific source of guano which reportedly brought forth a madly but wondrously sea captain was found deserted under what looked like unusual circumstances.

The captain of the Denys reported finding large warehouses filled with merchandise of every description, and numerous indications of hurried departure by persons who supposedly had been harvesting wealth in the guano trade.

Malden was discovered in 1848 by an American whaling captain. He noted the wealth of guano and decided to return and exploit it. In the meantime another whaling boat came along. Her captain got the same idea but instead of delaying, threw his whaling plans overboard, sailed for Sydney and sold his discovery there for a comfortable sum of money.

The purchasing company worked the island for decades and was said to have amassed a great fortune. But the Denys found Malden inhabited only by pigs and sea birds. That's all anyone knows.

Boy Overcoming Handicap

Brave Lad Lost Both Arms In Accident Seven Years Ago

Warton, Ontario, has a 14-year-old boy who plays football, umpires basketball, is skilled at drawing, writes well, rides a bicycle and has his share of fun. Nothing unusual about that. But in this case the boy is Bert Rouse who lost both his arms as the result of an accident seven years ago.

"They can who think they can" is the motto Bert holds before himself. It was inscribed in a book written by W. R. Watson, business man who lost his arms early in life, and who sent Bert a copy of the work. When Bert was seven years old he grabbed wires carrying 6,000 volts while playing on a roof. Amputation of both arms was necessary.

Bert still has trouble eating and dressing but he thinks he soon will have mastered these arts. He writes and draws with a pencil held in his teeth. He even goes fishing, holding the pole between his chin and the side of his neck.

He has confidence in the future, and intends to make his own way. "Something will open up by the time I leave school," he said. "I know it will."

Streets Of Gold

Unique Tourist Attraction Is Furnished By Dawson City

Dawson City, Yukon Territory, boasts a unique and somewhat startling tourist attraction. Streets of gold! After the recovery of the main gold content of gravel originally washed down from high levels above the Klondike Valley by a process of hydraulic operations, hundreds of tons of waste or "tailings" in which a trace of gold still remains were used to grade the roads in and around the town. Of course, the actual gold content remaining is exceedingly small, but nevertheless the streets of Dawson are literally paved with gold.

Now a town of about a thousand souls, Dawson was in the heyday of the famous Klondike gold rush a city of about 40,000 population. The original miners delved for gold with picks and shovels and washed out their "pay dirt" in rockers or sluices. To-day huge hydraulic dredges are in operation in the Klondike area and the salvage of gold has become a fine art. The variety of odds and ends picked up by these mammoth machines includes large quantities of bird shot, bullets, cartridges, odd pieces of metal, in addition to the occasional watch, ring, knife, and guns of all sizes and shapes. "At one time all this junk was simply thrown away, but a few years ago an engineer in charge of the recovery process in an experimental mood decided to treat several hundred pounds of bullets, shot and small pieces of metal. As a result of this experiment pure gold worth several hundred dollars was recovered, and now all bullets, shells, and bits of metal are carefully salvaged and treated to extract every last bit of wealth.

In common with other cities and towns Dawson has its parking and traffic problems. Scores of cars and trucks of all sorts clutter up the streets and trails at all hours. Many of the famous "creeks" in the Klondike gold fields can be reached by motor car over a network of excellent roads.

A Troopship De Luxe

British Soldiers Will Enjoy Lamer Comforts On New Boat

British soldiers sent to distant stations in the Empire or on foreign service who are fortunate enough to be carried on the troopship Dunera will travel in comfort luxurious for such vessels.

The vessel, of 11,160 tons, has been built for the British India Steam Navigation Company at a cost of $2,500,000 and has just completed her trial trips on the Clyde.

The ship is actually larger than the state liners in many big liners. The vessel is completely equipped with a system of ventilation which is in use in the majority of the finest liners afloat. The troops' quarters are light and airy, the first-class rooms in the first-class are luxuriously furnished, and accommodation in the family quarters includes a food-preparing room for parents with children, special ironing rooms and three-berth rooms in which are sofas convertible into cots for children. Every cabin in the ship has a porthole, and every bathroom has a fan and a shower bath.

The Dunera will probably be engaged in the passenger cruising service when not required for transport purposes.

A Statue Of Livingstone

Has Found A Permanent Home In Southern Rhodesia

The life-sized marble statue of David Livingstone which for some years was housed at the Glasgow University and was last year shipped to Southern Rhodesia, has found a permanent home in the courtyard of the new Government offices which are being built in Salisbury. After a thorough cleaning it will remain clear for all time in the pure Rhodesian air.

The statue shows Livingstone in stride, spurning chains and manacles as the symbols of slavery. The sculptor—and by the way his name is something of a mystery—shows Livingstone's many interests by putting a bundle of papers in his left hand, and a sextant in his right, while a Bible peeps out of his pocket.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO HANG PICTURES IN YOUR HOME?

Do you have to look up at the pictures in your living-room? If you do, they are not hung correctly. The centre of the picture should be on a level with the eye, so that the picture can be seen to proper advantage. The centre of the pictures on the same wall, should be in a line rather than the tops or the bottoms.

Do your pictures lie flat against the wall or are they tilted out? They should be flat against the wall, otherwise the picture seems unnatural.

Do you see only the picture or is your attention divided between the wire and the picture? There should not be one wire formed into a V over a hook. There should be two wires used for heavy pictures and for small pictures no wire at all should be seen.

Do your pictures show up against their background or is there too much design in your wall covering? A small quiet design is best for wall-paper.

Do your pictures fit the wall space in which they are hung? A wide picture should not be placed in a small space between two windows.

Do you have too many pictures on your walls? It is much better to avoid overcrowding. Put some of the extra pictures away and get them out later for a change.

Do your pictures express your personality? You are judged by the pictures found in your home. Have you some copies of good prints? Do your pictures express beauty or tell a story?

Woolen Mill Opened

Rural Manitoba Town Establishes A New Industry

An event of more than passing interest and one which may have important significance in the economic development of the West, took place at Sifton, Man., when the new factory of the Spin-Well Woolen Mills was officially opened by two Manitoba cabinet ministers.

The building is 100 feet long, 40 feet wide, two stories in height, with a concrete boiler room attached. The factory is now fully equipped and is producing wool batts, yarn, men's socks, and underwear. The wool washing and drying equipment is capable of a production of 200 pounds per hour. This large washing and drying capacity is one of considerable interest to farmers as it enables the company to give very quick service on custom work, which is a large part of the business now being done.

The official opening took place on October 14th, the Hon. I. B. Griffin, Minister of Health and Public Welfare, officiating. He was accompanied by the Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works, and the Hon. R. Hawkins, Speaker of the House. The Hon. W. R. Clubb in his remarks complimented the directors on their initiative and enterprise. As he is the minister responsible for the administration of relief, he stated he was extremely gratified to see what had been done in Sifton to create employment and hoped that other points would take notice of this development, as he could see how the problem of unemployment could be solved to a great extent through the establishment of industry using the products of the farm.

Wasted Effort

The canvasser called at the voter's door and was duly invited inside. At once he went into his act.

He praised the candidate. He gave facts and figures. He presented new arguments and old ones, all very reasonable.

The householder listened for an hour or more with rapt attention. Finally, the home-owner raised his hand.

"I'm convinced," he said. "There's no answer to your arguments. I'll vote for the watchdog of the treasury you represent only for one thing."

"What's that, sir?"

"My name is not on the voters' list."

System Is Efficient

Poultry Being Raised Amid Sky-scrapers Of New York

City born-and-bred chickens are likely to replace the barnyard variety throughout most of the "built-up" area of the United States. Poultry raising amid the skyscrapers of New York is now being carried on with the full approval of the city's health departments. The fowls are incubated, hatched out, and raised in the whole of their lives in small metal containers, and when they fail to lay a profitable number of eggs, they are killed, dressed and marketed all in the same building.

Each hen is housed in a separate small metal box. When she lays an egg it drops into a collecting box—Armchair Science (London).

Piper Must Be Paid

Governments Have To Raise Money For Public Services

Nowhere is there a greater upsurge of public demand to restrict or reduce services which municipal governments perform. Virtually every municipal body is constantly facing demands for increased services, but there seems never to go with this demand any realization that the cost of such expansion must be met. Frequently, too, original appropriations for new services may be small, but entail commitments for larger expenditures in the future. If tax limits are to be imposed, it seems only equitable that the amount of a limit, too, on the number, kind and quality of services a municipality is to furnish.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

British Soldier Killed When Japanese Plane Bombs Defences

Shanghai.—A British soldier was killed, and five Americans and about a score of other foreigners were endangered gravely Sunday when a Japanese warplane, with machine guns blazing, swooped five times over groups near the western edge of Shanghai's international settlement.

A British sentry at the scene said British soldiers returned the Japanese airman's fire with automatic rifles. Japanese naval and civilian officers quickly expressed regret to the British authorities.

British army officers disclosed three British outposts in the Keewick road area were sprayed by the Japanese airman's bullets and that a second soldier escaped serious injury when a cigarette case stopped a bullet which pierced his uniform.

A Japanese spokesman said the shooting was due to the error of an aviator who believed he was shooting at Chinese.

A Chinese spokesman ridiculed Japanese reports of Chinese retreats from Tazang and other sectors northwest of Shanghai.

"Our lines are intact and the morale of our troops is excellent," he declared.

Chinese still hung to Chapel, adjoining the international settlement, holding firm the right wing of their defence line. It was understood General Chiang Kai-Shek had ordered Chapel held at all costs.

The attack coincided with what Japanese spokesmen called a general advance of their forces along the front north and west of Shanghai, with the Chinese retreating at nearly all points.

The Japanese said they had advanced to the gates of Tazang, key-point in the Chinese defences and objective of Nanking, 10 miles west of Shanghai. Large Chinese forces were said to have been trapped near Nanking.

The British victim of the Japanese attack was Rifleman W. McGowan of the Royal Ulster Rifles, native of Dergal, Ireland. He died soon after admission to a hospital.

Four times the airman swooped at groups of foreigners seeking recreation along the Keewick road, outside the international settlement but inside the British defence lines. Many were on horseback, others walking.

The fifth time the airman plunged toward a British defence position, McGowan was hit; other British soldiers died behind sandbags. Then, said a sentry, a British naval officer ordered the men to reply with automatic rifles, which they did.

"We were under orders not to fire unless ordered by an officer or we would have fired sooner," the sentry explained. He said six horses were killed by the Japanese plane.

No foreigner except McGowan was hit but four Chinese nearby were reported killed and six wounded. H. D. Rodgers, prominent American lawyer, said the attack was "plain murder." He said more than 20 men and women riders, "dressed in all kinds of sports clothes in which it was impossible to mistake them for soldiers," were scattered along the roadway.

"When the plane came down I dived into the bushes," said Rodgers. "Others did likewise. It was a miracle none of us was shot."

R. K. Smith, manager here for a United States Insurance company, also said it "was a miracle" none of the riders was killed.

"We were riding along laughing and joking," he said, "when suddenly the plane dived over us and bullets peppered the earth around us. The only refuge was a ditch, so we flung ourselves into it and prayed for the best."

To express official regrets for the Keewick road shooting, Rear-Admiral Rokuzo Suigiyama, chief of staff of the Japanese naval forces, called on Admiral Sir Charles Little, British commander in chief, while K. Okamoto, Japanese consul-general, made a similar call on Herbert Phillips, British consul-general.

Restored To List

Hon. Howard Ferguson and Colonel Drew Are Kings' Counsellors

Toronto.—Attorney-General Gordon Coont announced that names of Hon. G. H. Ferguson, former Canadian high commissioner to London, and Col. George A. Drew, former Ontario securities commissioner, had been restored to the list of king's counsel.

"In creating Mr. Ferguson and Col. Drew king's counsel we are doing so in recognition of their services to the province and without any relation to any previous action in connection with this distinction," the attorney-general said.

Though they were made K.C.'s several years ago, Mr. Ferguson and Col. Drew were dropped from the rolls for failure to pay the fees required to lift their patents.

Attorney-General Coont also announced that Hon. Eric Cross, minister of public welfare and municipal affairs in the new Hebrides government, had been created a K.C.

Shells From Emden

Found On Japanese Ship Which Docked At Singapore

Singapore.—Memories of the Great War were revived here by the curious discovery of 400 shells on a Japanese ship thought to have belonged originally to the famous German raider Emden.

The Japanese vessel put in here and was found to have 400 six-inch shells aboard. Officer said they found the shells on an island in the Indian ocean.

Author Named Beneficiary

Vancouver.—Robert W. Service, famous Canadian author, was named beneficiary with his four brothers and two sisters when the will of their mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Service, was filed in supreme court for probate. Mrs. Service died here last June, aged 82. The estate, totalling $42,228, is shared equally by the seven children.

World Wheat King

Samuel Larcombe, Famed Agriculturist, Dies In Hospital At Birle, Man.

Birle, Man.—Samuel Larcombe, "grand old man" of western Canada agriculture and world wheat king in 1917, died in hospital here October 20.

The 86-year-old retired farmer, famed as the producer of Axminster wheat, a rust-resistant variety, was brought to hospital suffering injuries received after a fall. Pneumonia developed and he sank rapidly.

Besides giving the world rust-resistant wheat in 1912, Mr. Larcombe won 3,000 prizes for soil products in his 43 years of farming in Manitoba. His farming career was capped with victory at the International Grain Exposition at Portia, Ill., in 1917 when he was crowned wheat king.

Born in Musbury village, near Axminster, Devon, April 9, 1851, he began work on a farm with his father at the age of nine as an experienced gardener. In 1889 he came to Canada, becoming a homesteader at Birle, 180 miles west of Winnipeg.

On three occasions he won the sweepstakes prize for the best soil products exhibited by any individual at international shows. In 1918 he took top honors at the World's Soil Products exhibition at Kansas City, and again at exhibition in Winnipeg during 1919 and 1920.

For his brilliant achievements Mr. Larcombe was honored on many occasions. During the last session of the Manitoba legislature a resolution was passed extending him greetings on his 85th birthday and thanking him for his valuable, devoted and sacrificing services to agriculture.

Aeroplane Disaster

Youthful Trapper Tells Story Of Crash On Mountain Side

Salt Lake City.—A mountaineer—only eye-witness to the United States worst aeroplane disaster—told a vivid story of a transport plane flying blindly through a mountain blizzard, then a terrific crash which killed 19 persons.

Height Profits, youthful trapper from northeastern Utah, trackless wilderness, said he saw the United Air Lines' 21-passenger "Mainliner" barely miss towering pines in his backyard, watched the craft's lights vanish in the storm, then heard it plough into a granite ridge.

Bereaved relatives visited a small mortuary in southwestern Wyoming's Evanston, identified and claimed the bodies.

A county sponsored investigation of the accident, conducted by Joseph Hopkins, corner of Summit county, Utah, where the crash occurred, brought an official verdict that "death was by accident."

Release French Freighter

Paris.—The French freighter Cens, seized by Spanish insurgents and released after intervention by French destroyers, was en route to Bayonne, according to information received here. The ship, transporting a cargo of ore from Benisaf, Algeria, to Bayonne, was stopped by insurgent warcraft off Gijon, and taken to the port of Rivedado, in Lugo province.

Secured In Rodco Contest

New York.—After a spirited ride on Separator, Violet Clement of Edmonton took second money in the cowgirl's bronk riding contest in the world championship rodeo, at Madison Square Garden.

NEW HEAD OF MCGILL

Dr. Lewis W. Douglas, newly appointed Principal of McGill University, Montreal. He is a former Roosevelt "brain trust" and broke with the President in 1934 when he thought the New Deal was "slipping toward the left."

Unrest In Palestine

Wave Of Terrorism Continues In Holy Land

Jerusalem.—Elusive snipers kept alive the wave of terrorism in the Holy Land by a series of attacks in halloved Biblical settings.

The new attacks were a continuation of the outbreaks which have resulted in 39 deaths—six Jews and 33 Arabs—since Great Britain, as mandatory power, proposed the partition of Palestine, July 7.

Snipers peppered bullets about a police station near the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem. Police returned the fire, but no casualties were reported.

A bomb was thrown at a group of Jewish constables as they entered the police station at Safed, a small town north of the Biblical city of Capernaum. The bomb exploded harmlessly nearby.

Snipers shot 11 bullets at a kosher abbatoir in the valley below the olive groves of Olivets, causing a partial shortage of kosher meat in the community.

(The border between Syria and Palestine was closed according to a despatch from Beirut, and Count Darnaud, French high commissioner for Syria, requested the Syrian government to prevent anti-British demonstrations and propaganda. The border between Lebanon and Palestine was not closed, but travellers were examined closely.)

British Scientist Dead

Lord Rutherford Worked Many Years On Various Problems

Cambridge.—Lord Rutherford, one of the world's leading physicists and director of Cambridge University's famous Cavendish Laboratory for the past 18 years, died recently, aged 66. Lord Rutherford was Macdonald professor of physics at McGill University, Montreal, from 1898 to 1907.

Lord Rutherford had worked unobtrusively but intensively for more than 30 years on the problems of radio-activity, transmutation of elements and the splitting of the atom.

The scientist, a native of Nelson, New Zealand, was knighted in 1914, when he was known as Sir Ernest Rutherford. He was created a baron in 1931. In 1925 he received from King George V. the coveted Order of Merit.

FAMOUS WAR GENERALS TOGETHER

General Franco Is Armed With Power To Be Dictator Of Spain

Science And War

Ramsay MacDonald Makes Plea For Democracy

London.—Former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science, discussed the effects of modern science on warfare.

He said China and Spain had shown the great advance attributable to science in the destructive forces of so-called chemical warfare. These would be repeated with increased horror wherever war broke out.

"If we cannot avoid war, we cannot avoid the worst that can happen in warfare," he said, in delivering the first Radford Matter lecture to the association. "But let us not be misled by thinking scientists as such can stop war."

The action of the farmer in growing wheat and food for war, he continued, was akin to the engineer turning out improved flying machines. But it was false judgment and cowardly for one to blame them if peace was not secured.

"The plea I make is for practical democracy. But if democracy is to triumph in the attack now being made, it must have method and I believe the records of the scientific worker and the way be sets about his work will steady and clarify the popular mind not only to complain eloquently but to conclude wisely," the former prime minister declared.

What The Press Could Do

Toronto.—If the newspapers could give the same attention to the diptheria menace as the infantile paralysis epidemic, this disease—which took 33 lives in Ontario last year—would soon be wiped out, said Dr. B. T. McGhie, Ontario deputy health minister, speaking to the Local Council of Women.

Hendaye, Francy-Spanish Frontier.

General Franco, armed with more complete power as dictator of insurgent Spain, turned his attention from the conquered northwest to the vital eastern front.

While the two-thirds of Spain under his control celebrated the fall of Gijon, Bay of Biscay report, and collapse of government resistance in the northwest, Franco tightened his hold on the reins.

It was disclosed the decree setting up the Fascist National council gave General Franco the right to name secretly his own successor as dictator of Spain. It provided all executive power shall be exercised by General Franco and his ministers, of whom he is expected shortly to name 10.

Insurgent officers said the greater part of nearly 100,000 insurgent troops who have been fighting in Asturias would be transferred soon to the Aragon and Madrid fronts. Only small forces would be left to clean up the conquered northwest.

General Franco broadcast a declaration "the northern front has officially disappeared." Both sides were girding for a death struggle on the eastern fronts, especially those of Aragon and Madrid. Fighting was in progress in that region, where a major battle has raged intermittently for two weeks.

Best Growers' Bonus

Lethbridge, Alta.—"Pay day" brought 1,000 best growers in southern Alberta a bonus payment of $38,000 on the 1936 crop. They were 208,000 tons of best grown in the south country last year and the total payments to date is $64 a ton. The initial payment on the 1937 crop will be made Nov. 1, covering deliveries up to Oct. 15.

Talk Of Sanctions Is A Mistake Says Britain's Premier

London.—Termining talk of economic sanctions, economic pressure and force in the Sino-Japanese embargo a "mistake," Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Great Britain would seek a "peaceful solution of the problem" at the coming nine-power conference.

He also told the commons repeated and most categorical assurances had come from the Italian government that it had no intentions of annexing Spanish territory.

When this provoked derisive laughter from the opposition benches the prime minister added:

"I accept these assurances as being given in good faith. I am very glad they have been given. They relieve us of the necessity of considering a situation which, if it had arisen, might have made a material change in the military conditions of the western Mediterranean and would have been a matter of serious concern to His Majesty's government."

The prime minister wound up a long and searching debate on foreign affairs in the first session of the commons following the summer recess.

After he spoke the house approved a government motion to adjourn by a vote of 204 to 111. Labor voted against the motion to register its disapproval of the government's policy in Spain and the far east.

Mr. Chamberlain said he resented a Labor charge that the government policy aided the Spanish insurrection. He said the Spanish insurrection was a matter of internal Spanish affairs, under the protection of the British navy, had removed 30,000 refugees from the town of Gijon, which fell to the insurgent forces.

It was a full-dress debate the commons heard, with representatives of the diplomatic corps and as many of the public as could crowd into the galleries listening intently.

Foreign Secretary, Eden reiterated the government's intention to take no side in Spain and promised "there will be no interference on the part of the British government where it is clear that vital British interests are concerned"—such as keeping the Mediterranean open.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, opposition Liberal leader, made an appeal for close co-operation with the United States when the powers meet at Brussels the end of this month to seek a solution of the Sino-Japanese hostilities. If an appeal for mediation failed, he said, economic pressure must be prepared with sufficient force to make it effective.

"We cannot go alone," Sir Archibald said. "The country that must take the lead... must be the United States with her immense interests in the far east and without our preoccupation in Europe. But I do beg the government to make it clear that if the United States will act then we ought to stand by them and act with them."

The prime minister said it would be a mistake for Britain to go to Brussels talking about "economic sanctions, economic pressure and force."

"We will go there to make peace, and the first thing we have to do is to see what concerted effort can be brought to bear in order to bring about a peaceful solution of that problem," he declared.

He said he understood Mr. Attlee was suggesting an economic and financial boycott of Japan. In that case, Mr. Chamberlain said, "you must bear in mind that if you are going to do that there may be some counter-action by Japan and... you must be assured beforehand of sufficient force to enable you to overwhelm that counter-action."

Mr. Attlee prompted this reply by stating he was convinced Japanese economy was extremely vulnerable and a show of firmness would end the insurrection. He asserted economic pressure on Japan would no more bring war than did the Nyon conference on piracy in the Mediterranean.

An embargo on oil, Mr. Attlee would certainly end Japan's aggression. Taking up a charge by Mr. Attlee that Japan would not have embarked on her Chinese adventure had Great Britain stood by the League of Nations, the prime minister said the league "as it is at present is not a guarantee against aggression and, pending rejuvenation of the league, and the league's development into an effective instrument, it is no use simply going on repeating 'we believe in the league'."

"We have got to find a practical means of restoring peace in the world," he declared.

England Intends To Proceed With Partition Of The Holy Land

London.—Renewed terrorist violence was reported from Palestine as the secretary of state for colonial affairs, William Ormsby-Gore, told the House of Commons Great Britain intended to go ahead with the plan for a three-way partition of the Holy Land.

Despatches from Jerusalem told of new attacks at the Lydda airport, where severe punitive measures had been taken by the government following the burning of sheds. The Iraq oil pipeline was again punctured by shots near Beisan.

Police hunted the assassins of Avinoam Yellin, Cambridge-educated senior inspector of Jewish schools in the department of education, who was shot and critically wounded as he was entering his Mount Zion office beside the old city wall.

On the Jaffa-Jerusalem road near Motza daylight ambushers attacked a Jewish bus with a fusillade of shots. Four Jews were injured by flying glass.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore disclosed the government was sending Sir Charles

Teggart, former high officer of the Indian police, to Palestine to advise the government on the strengthened police administration.

The colonial secretary said effective action had been taken to deal with the violence growing out of Jewish and Arab animosities. The government now felt free, he said, to undertake the investigation required before the division of the Holy Land into sovereign Arab, Jewish states and a British mandate.

Accordingly, he said, it was proposed to appoint a special body to investigate conditions in the Holy Land and submit a detailed scheme of partition along the general lines of the royal commission report.

Jews, meanwhile, protested a new draft ordinance restricting immigration of Jews and other foreigners to the Holy Land. The ordinance, carrying out one of the commission's proposals, empowered the high commissioner to grant a fixed number of immigration permits to March 31, 1938, instead of regulating immigration according to the country's capacity for economic absorption.

THE COLEMAN JOURNAL

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1937.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

ONE OF the pleasant relaxations of a country editor is to read the numerous weekly newspapers which are always interesting. They give a true picture of their communities.

TO LISTEN to radio announcers, one would almost believe that he is facing disease and death by not using someone's pills, lotion, toothpaste, cigarettes, beer, hair shampoo, and many other things. The world loves "ballyhoo!" Alberta gets more than a fair share; but you can always turn the dial if you don't like to hear it.

THE UNFORTUNATE plight of the people of Saskatchewan and part of Alberta suffering from drought and lack of provisions has aroused the generous sympathy of people in many places more fortunate. Penticton has sent several carloads of fruit, about seventeen; Manitoba and Ontario have sent fruits and vegetables, carloads being contributed from many points. Farmers and citizens of Macleod forwarded a carload of foodstuff to Consul, Saskatchewan. The suggestion has been made that some help be given from the Pass towns. Prosperous conditions on the prairies help very materially to the well-being of the coal industry of Alberta, therefore as we have benefitted in past years from bounteous production in the prairie sections, a good turn would be in order, particularly when those people are so badly in need of help. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

THE DISASTROUS fire which destroyed the surface equipment of the Crows Nest Pass Coal Co. at Michel, will throw over 500 men out of employment for some time. It is most unfortunate, more so when it happens only two months before Christmas. Such occurrences emphasize the hazards of fire which are always present, and which can destroy the work of years in a very short space of time.

THOSE INTERESTED in securing a union candidate for the provincial election are talking of calling a meeting. Forewarned is forearmed, and preliminary action might well now be organized.

RADIO BROADCASTS of the Prophetic Bible Institute are no longer termed "services" by the premier. He terms them as "programs." The truth would be "political propaganda," for which he collects from his followers in the province. That contribution from Ponoka to help pay for a broadcast is as amusing as the premier describing himself as a "bull." Many consider his broadcasts as so much "bull." By his own comparisons he invites many uncomplimentary remarks. And the newspapers are to be suppressed, if he has his will.

THE FINE October weather experienced during most of the month is something about which Mr. Aberhart cannot do anything. He might have the effrontery to tell the people that he decreed it. "Allah is mighty!"

NOW WE have the highways report.

THE ATTACKS which Premier Aberhart has made on all who disagree with him have at last brought protest and retaliation. His pious utterances in one breath and what almost borders on blasphemy in the next is nauseous. The comparison he makes of himself to the Saviour is objectionable, and shows the hypocrisy of the man. Failing to discover any way in which he can pay his promised dividend of $25 a month, he turns the blame on those who before his election warned the people that it couldn't be done.

THE FORMER BIBLE Institute secretary, Hon. E. C. Mauning, absolutely lacking in experience in finance or anything else except scriptural utterance and the coaching of "His Master's Voice," made a most ridiculous statement when he said the banks could write a cheque to pay $2,000,000 in taxation to the province, and it wouldn't cost them anything. He has been asked to prove how it can be done. Of course, he cannot answer the question, any more than Aberhart can pay the dividend, a promise by which he gained the premiership. And such types as these would silence the Press because it told the truth. The sooner this crowd of opportunists at Edmonton are relegated to oblivion, the better it will be for the province. They have the nerve to ask their opponents to produce a better platform than they have. The only better platform we can conceive is one of greater chicanery and imposture than what we are now experiencing. They simply have no claim whatever for a continuance in office. Two years of floundering, and then submitting the government of Alberta to Douglas, Powell and Bryne should make every person "fed up" with such a travesty.

A GREAT Economist once said: "All great economic truths are simple and easily understood." He said nothing about higher mathematics, blood streams, A plus B Theorem, or Social Credit dividends.

The Truth About
Newspaper Circulation
and Its Value!

WHERE STATEMENTS that so many copies are distributed lose their value if not authentic. Many exaggerated statements are frequently made, particularly when no audit is made. Newspapers subject to audit must prove by their subscription records that their copies are going to bona-fide subscribers. The postal regulations also demand it.

It is easy to give away free sheets or advertising circulars, but a legitimate newspaper has more to offer than that. Appreciation of the fact that the small town weeklies come close home to the attention of Mr. Citizen is more generally displayed today than some years ago.

Development of the radio with its broadcast news and entertainment has reduced the amount of interest in the daily papers.

For local buyer value and interest, regular newspapers are the most efficient. Experience of advertisers of long standing proves it.

Here is what an advertising authority in Toronto, who is a large purchaser of space, states: "If one were to enquire as to how best to reach the rural people with the messages of explanation which are the prelude to understanding, the answer must be that THE COUNTRY WEEKLY PAPERS are publications which are closely read by their subscribers and neighbors."

"The 700 weeklies of Canada are serving their communities superlatively well. Any advertising campaign which overlooks these papers is a campaign which is incomplete. Therefore it is likely to be ineffective in part."

People willingly pay a subscription price for something they appreciate. It is quality circulation that has real merit, and exaggerated statements of quantity are to be heavily discounted. Much of a free circulation carries no buying power whatever.

Attractive typographical display and interesting news matter play an important part in influencing sales, and that is where the weekly newspaper is supreme.

Take advantage of our combination magazine offer. Three high class magazines and The Journal—the four for one year for three dollars.

Has anyone in Coleman any Prosperity Certificates? The Journal received the enquiry, from a souvenir hunter.

Mr. C. F. Founda, of the Bank of Commerce staff, expects his wife and young son to arrive from Cheshire, Eng., about November 25, to take up residence here.

Joe Lipovski, of the Coleman hotel, and J. A. McDonald, of the Empire hotel, attended the hotelmen's convention at Lethbridge on Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Wilma D. Halliwell, who will complete her three years' training course in University Hospital, Edmonton, in December, has passed her examinations for registered nurse.

Lorenzo Richards, junior, received bruises to his back on Saturday when he was hit by a piece of rock while engaged at his employment at International. He was kept in hospital several days before being discharged.

J. Ankill is at present engaged in construction work at Mohawk Bituminous Mines Limited, where a new hoist is being built. The work is somewhat difficult, being on the peak of one of the hills.

Just a gentle reminder to those who seek free publicity which rightly should be classed as advertising. White space in a newspaper is what it has to sell, and is equivalent to the stock on a retailer's shelves.

Quite a number of people have taken advantage of the Home Improvement Plan to install furnaces in their homes. Booklets giving full details of loans under this plan may be obtained from the bank or from The Journal office.

L. C. Duncliffe and E. Parder, representing Western Printing & Lithographing Co. Ltd., of Calgary, were callers at The Journal office on Friday. They were on a goodwill tour of the weekly newspaper offices in the southern part of the province.

Foss Boulton is reported to be trying out with a Vancouver amateur hockey team. For the past two years he was a stalwart player on the local junior team, moving to Vancouver this summer. He is at present employed at an airplane factory at Vancouver, training for his commercial pilot's certificate.

Fire is man's greatest friend—and also his greatest foe. Safe-guard your home against loss and destruction by fire, by carrying ample insurance through this office. Remember, it is too late when the sirens are howling and the firemen are running. Act now, and you will have no regrets later.—See Norman E. MacAulay, "The Insurance Man," now!

"Bud" and "Buck", former neighbors of The Journal Office, who now live in the east end of town, have decided to enjoy more comfort in their new home by adding a furnace. They still have a few pets. One of their strange pets at one time was a magpie, which "Bud" patiently tried to teach the Gaelic language. The bird suffered so much that it decided it were better to give up the ghost.

Mrs. J. A. McDonald returned on Wednesday from a visit to her former home in Nova Scotia, where she has been visiting since the middle of August. Stopping off on her way east at Hamilton, Ont., she was accompanied by her sister who lives there. She found Nova Scotia very beautiful in its late summer garb. At Lethbridge on her return she was met by Mr. McDonald, who had been attending the annual convention of the Alberta Hotelmen's Association.

E. W. Simpson, formerly with Sentinel Motors, who left here in February, 1936, after a year's residence here, was a visitor this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Halliwell. He is now with the loan and mortgage department of the London Life Assurance Co. in Vancouver, and was on his way east to the head offices of the company in London, Ont. During the summer he made a trip east by plane from Vancouver to Chicago, which he states was quite an interesting experience and a great time-saver.

$5,000,000 FOR HIGHWAYS
The earmarking of $5,000,000 by the Michigan legislature from the current general revenue fund for highway improvement, probably marks the first instance in which a state has arranged a continuing appropriation from its general revenue for this purpose.

The $5,000,000 bill was passed June 10 and had earlier been passed by the Senate. There was also a bill before the legislature to appropriate $2,000,000 from the general revenue fund each year to go to the counties, to be used exclusively in highway improvement, and a bill of $600,000 for snow removal.

The theory back of these appropriations bills was that a good share of receipts of the state's sales tax, which go into the general revenue fund, comes from the sale of cars, tires,

Six tables of whist were in play, prize winners being Mrs. McIsaac, Mrs. J. Richards and Mrs. R. Holmes. During the evening a number of beautiful gifts were presented to the bride by Mrs. Holmes on behalf of the guests present. A wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Glendenning, held the spotlight on the luncheon tables.

Popular Coleman Store Style News of Interest

Large Central Buying Organization Facilities Brings New Styles and Ideas.

On the counters this week you may find many interesting items. Silk hostess with crepe finish which goes on special Saturday at 49c together with several lines of the better full fashioned hose 65c, 2 pairs for $1.25. This should interest all thrifty buyers in the Pass. Daintily trimmed bandeaux at 25c and rayon pantes at 25c. The new satin dressing gowns are extremely feminine and unresistible, while the price is within the reach of the average.

Every knitter will thrill at the sight of the large display of Thistle-bloom and Boucle de Laine yarns which arrived not long ago and speaking about NEW: the pencil skirt and satin blouse awaken the desire for this new form of dress. Even the staple every day lines have an attractiveness and appeal. All in all the Frank Aboussafy store offers you the latest and best merchandise at prices competitive with the largest centres and is truly a store the town can be proud of. The word new is possibly the most important word in the vocabulary of shopping, especially when women are involved. Realizing that Frank Aboussafy has joined a large central buying organization which keeps him in touch with the new styles and ideas, together with special agency lines, which go towards making this store a truly popular one for the town of Coleman.

Ladies' Pigeon Race

Flying for a prize donated by Mr. T. Longworth, manager of the Alexandra and Lethbridge Union Hotels, Calgary, the ladies of the Coleman Homing Society entered two birds each, the race being from Calgary on October 11. Unfavorable weather prevailed.

The result was as follows: Mrs. A. Biegan, Mrs. W. Routhead, Mrs. F. Beddington.

This is the first time that the ladies have entered birds in a race and keen excitement was featured. The ladies proved to be as fast, if not faster, in trapping and clocking in the birds, than the men.

The race was under the Coleman Homing Society auspices.

1. Never. This invitation must be accepted or declined without a moment's hesitation. A pause of even two or three seconds is bad form.
 2. He should do so in a hotel elevator, but it is not necessary in an office building or shop.
 3. Yes. Under no circumstances should silver be placed on the table cover.
 4. No. The father has a perfect right to be concerned about everything that might affect the happiness of his daughter.
 5. Yes. This is one of the most frequent acts of discourtesy. To be a good listener is one of the surest ways to gain friends, and is just as important as to be a good speaker.
 6. The usher goes first, then the woman, and last her escort. If there is no usher, the man should go first.
 7. Refuse to talk, refuse to smile, appear bored, fall asleep, leave the room abruptly, sit and read.
 8. Yes. It is very poor form. It is no more correct than "ladies" would be for "ladies."
 9. Yes, always, and whether the guest be a man or a woman. It is exceedingly discourteous if she does not.

MORTGAGE LOANS

TENS of thousands of Canadian farms and homes benefit from first mortgage loans made possible by the accumulated savings of Life Insurance policyholders.

For every borrower, there are six thrifty people who supply the necessary funds.

This fact affords a striking illustration of the "double duty" performed by Life Insurance dollars. Not only do they ensure financial security for the men, women and children of Canada, but they also help to build and finance their farms and homes.

Life Insurance companies exercise the greatest care in the selection of properties upon which mortgage loans are made. To safeguard the savings of policyholders, security of principal and interest is and must always be the first consideration.

Two Bison Among Canadian Animals Shipped From Alberta Park

A modern Noah's Ark sailed from Montreal recently when the Canadian Pacific freighter Beaverburn cleared port carrying among its cargo a small menagerie composed of buffalos, bears and beavers. True to Biblical tradition the animals went in two by two, there being a pair of each slung aboard. All six animals were being shipped to the Dudley Zoological Gardens, England, by John F. McKellar of Elk Island Park, near Edmonton.

Quiet and well behaved the bears and beavers excited little comment but not so the Bison. Ill tempered at their limited quarters in narrow crates, the two "cows" kicked furiously at their wooden containers. Wary longshoremen stood their distance dubious of the strength of the crates. As one sailor observed, those two may be females but "they're not ladies." The boxes withstood the flying hooves and after a few moments in their new location on the Beaverburn's boat deck the Bison quelled down. Both crates were boarded completely in front and half way down the sides to prevent the animals seeing anything. "Should they catch sight of anyone they would go almost insane," Mr. McKellar explained. The Bison each weighing about 900 pounds, both young, Mr. McKellar said. The beavers too were immature and one bear, a brown one, was a yearling while the other black was but a cub.

The usual shipment added to the name of beaver being shipped to Mr. McKellar said. The beavers too were immature and one bear, a brown one, was a yearling while the other black was but a cub.

Plowed Straight Furrow

Farmer 94 Years Old Was Competitor At Fergus, Ontario

A crowd estimated at 45,000 people established a new attendance record for the 24th International ploughing match at Fergus, Ont.

Major attraction was 94-year-old John Hammond of Hagersville, who handled the plough man who was nine years old. It was drawn by a yoke of oxen and officials said no straighter furrow was ploughed by any other competitor in the match.

Paths For Dogs

New York had bridge paths for horses, cycle roads for bicycles, so why not pooch-paths for dogs. That's the suggestion of Martin Nusbaum, president of the Dog Owners' Protective Association, which has neither dogs nor profits.

Had Exciting Trip

Rochester Stenographer Hunted Insects In Sierra Madre Mountains Stenography bored Elvira Rosenbauer, 24 years old, of Rochester, N.Y., one cold day last March—and, besides, she wanted to hunt insects in the Sierra Madre Mountains in Mexico.

So she resigned her secretarial job, and, although she spoke no Spanish, had little experience as a camper and even less as an explorer, equipped herself and set out for a primitive prospecting camp 10,000 feet above sea level and 70 miles from Mexico's west coast.

To-day the young woman is back, her memory full of experiences, some funny and some perilous, and 30 boxes full of insect trophies which museums already are eagerly seeking.

Ward's Natural History Museum and the University of Rochester would get most of her collection, she said.

Life in the mountain camp was not all collecting insects, such strange things as cicadas, from whose backs little parasite plants grow, or glow-worms that look like miniature lighted Pullman trains as they wriggle through the grass at night.

There was a four-day siege of Malaria, when she was gravely ill; the time when death came close as she unwittingly took no precautions with a deadly coral snake, and a ride on a narrow mountain path from which even the sure-footed pack mules sometimes plunged.

Miss Rosenbauer said that she slept with a bowie knife by her side and yet dressed for dinner every night according to the best British exploring tradition.

"The trip was the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me," she concluded, and I'd go back in a minute if I could get some one to finance the expedition."

A New Machine

May Help Girl Who Cannot Walk, Talk, Or Hear

An 8-year-old girl, deaf and blind arrived at Northwestern University, Chicago, where by means of a newly invented three-finger multiautator, efforts will be made to teach her to walk, talk and hear.

The child has been specially selected by Dr. Robert H. Gaul, the university's professor of psychology, because of her human faculty which the multiautator is presumed to bring into being lies dormant in her person. She cannot walk because, unlike the majority of children born deaf and blind, she has failed to grasp the idea of self motion from the pressure of the hands of others.

The phonotator transmits tones to the fingers through one vibrator. Dr. Goodfellow's instrument carries vibration—the sense of touch taking the place of sound—through three fingers and is expected eventually to be a five-finger instrument.

The child will never be able to see, but both her future teachers believe they will give her a voice as she grasps the ability to translate touch into sound and so bring her mind to the task of directing movements of her body.

Getting Even

It was late when the hostess at the reception requested the famous bass to sing.

"It is too late, madam," he protested. "I should disturb your neighbors."

"Not at all," declared the hostess. "Besides, they poisoned our dog last week."

Quite A Mouthful

Ludwik Rzemickiewicz, 23-year-old Somerville automobile mechanic, petitioned the Middlesex Probate Court in Cambridge, Mass., for authority to change his name to Edward Rasmik because "my employer and friends can't pronounce it." Then he added: "And I can't pronounce it myself."

Harmful To Children

Sir Ernest MacMillan Scores Bad Music Of Present Day

The present-day exposure of children to "bad" music must stop if they are to be given a musical education, Sir Ernest MacMillan told the Ontario Music Teachers' Association at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Commenting on someone's statement, that no music was bad—that it was simply music that wasn't as good as it might be, Sir Ernest said: "Someone once defined dirt as matter in the wrong place."

Questioned after the convention, Sir Ernest replied that "some jazz" might come under the definition "bad." He refused to elaborate further.

He urged co-operation between professional and school music teachers so that the work of one might supplement that of the other and thus avoid overlapping.

"But," he added, "we can never build up any kind of musical education except on a foundation of thoroughly good music. Nothing else has a right place in our educational scheme, no matter what part it has in recreational hours."

Speed Water Surveys

Aircraft Used In Western Canada To Obtain Photographs For Mapping Areas

Aircraft have been engaged to expedite surveys of water resources in the Alberta-Saskatchewan drouth area, it was learned as the Royal Canadian Air Force made public a report on civil operations in the west and northwest.

The air force report said two machines were sent early in September to photograph sections of the drouth area for the department of agriculture, and officials of that department explained the work was designed to determine suitable locations for dams and other water conservation works on the Frenchman and Souris rivers in the prairie drouth bowl.

In the northwest the air force reported aerial photography was hampered by smoke. Biggest forest fire in the country's history last summer burned an area west of the Athabasca river 300 miles long and 50 miles deep.

Mines and resources department officials said three air force machines which returned to Ottawa conducted surveys for it in the Gordon lake and Yellowknife areas north of Great Slave lake, providing photographs for mapping of the area in which extensive prospecting and mining development is in progress.

In the drouth area, the department of agriculture reported, planes were substituted for ground parties to speed water surveys. The plane crews took photographs using topographic cameras to bring out contours in the countryside and enable quick determination of the best spots for dams and reservoirs.

The air force said one machine remained in the field on survey work at the south end of Vancouver Island; one was in Quebec, based at Grand Mere, two remained on the prairies.

A Strange Creature

Taken From The Stomach Of A Whale On The Pacific Coast

The fisheries department's new bulletin described a strange creature taken from the stomach of a Pacific coast whale, tallying closely with descriptions of the elusive cadozaurus of southern Vancouver Island waters but much smaller, possibly an infant.

Officials relating the report of the Naden harbor whaling station were surprised to find in it this description of an animal taken from the stomach of a whale killed off Queen Charlotte Island, Alaska: "To feed, having a head similar to a large dog, animal-like vertebrae and having a tail resembling a single blade of gill bone as found in whales' jaws."

Officials said it was surprising to find such a large creature in a whale's stomach as the animals feed usually on squid, octopus and sometimes shrimp.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 31

THE MORAL ISSUE IN THE DRINK PROBLEM

Golden text: Walk by the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. Galatians 5:16.

Lesson: Romans 13:12-14; 1 Corinthians 6:9-11; Galatians 5:16-24. Devotional reading: 1 Corinthians 8:1-13.

Explanations and Comments

The Walk of the Christian, Romans 13:13, 14. "Let us walk becomingly, as in the day," Paul urges the speakers of conduct as a walk some 33 times in his letters, and then enumerates some of the evils which a Christian will not commit, among them are drunkenness. Dr. James Stiffer bids us notice that strife and jealousy are classed with the coarse indulgences of the animal nature and make a climax. The contrast, obvious man ranks with the drunkard and the debauchee. Dr. Moffatt translates our paragraph thus: "Let us live decorously as in the light of day—no revelling or bouts or duelling, no debauchery or sensuality, no quarrelling or jealousy. No, put on the character of the Lord Jesus Christ, and never think how to gratify the craving of the flesh."

Make No Mistake About It, 1 Corinthians 6:9-11. Corinth was the healthy capital of the Roman Province of Achaia, or Greece. Paul labored for eighteen months in Corinth, preaching first to the Jews and then to the Gentiles. Several years later, when at Ephesus during this missionary journey, he wrote this letter to the church which he had founded there.

Or know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? "Shall have no share in its present privileges and future blessings. The kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom (Jn. 18:35); its blessings and privileges are special; how then could such unrighteous men as those enumerated, whose conduct tended to harden the heart and dull the spiritual insight, have any part in it?" (Dummelow).

Such evil-doers were some of you, Paul wrote to friends, but you submitted to baptism, you were set apart for God's service, and were clothed as righteous through the influence of the Lord Jesus and the working of the Holy Spirit.

Contrasting Notes, Galatians 5:16-24. Paul's letter to the Galatians was written to the churches he founded in Galatia, the great Roman Province which extended from north to south across the central plateau of Asia Minor.

Moffatt translates the first two verses of our paragraph: "I mean, lead the life of the Spirit; then you will never satisfy the passions of the flesh. For the passion of the flesh is against the Spirit, and passion of the Spirit against the flesh—the two are at issue, so that you are not free to do as you please. And 'One Volume Summary' paraphrases the whole paragraph as follows: 'In the life which is fostered by the Spirit you will find your true safety against the evils of which I am warning you. For between the pure aspiration of the Spirit and the selfish impulses of the flesh there is a sharp, irrepressible conflict. If you live under the Spirit of God, you have no need to seek the guidance of the law. Contrast the sins which spring from the carnal impulses with the virtues which spring from the Spirit's guidance. The former exclude from God's kingdom; the latter are not condemned by any law.'

An Unwelcome Passenger

Leopard Attacked Two Men On Train In India

When a passenger on the Hardwar-Dehra Dun (United Provinces) train opened the door at Mouzampur station in answer to what he took for a knock he saw the eyes of a leopard staring at him.

He tried to shut the door but the animal was too quick for him. Springing upon him it tore his shoulder and mauled another passenger who came to his rescue. It was springing upon a third person when it saw a spear being aimed at it. It jumped out of the window and disappeared into the jungle.—Indian Press Union.

Treatment Of Cancer No. 3

More than 40 years ago, a man and a woman were engaged in the boiling of some sort of chemicals in iron cauldrons in an old shed at the outskirts of Paris, France. They gathered wood from whatever source they could in the neighborhood. The neighbours were curious about this pair. They evidently were poor. From day to day they toiled at their task until one day the woman discovered some fine crystals in the residue contained in a copper vessel she was using. It was a new element. It looked just like the white pepper we have on our tables. It was radium. The hard-working man and his wife were Pierre and Madame Marie Curie, chemists. The latter was a native of Poland named Maria Sklodowska. The date was 1898. It was a brilliant discovery, opening the way for a new and effective treatment of cancer. By this discovery Marie Curie, a thin delicate woman of a woman, made herself one of the greatest benefactors of mankind.

Radium is made from pitchblende, a black-looking substance containing the oxide of uranium. The richest source of pitchblende is on the shores of Great Bear Lake in North West Canada. This recent discovery and the subsequent refinement of radium at Port Hope, Ontario, has changed the entire face of the radium problem. Five years ago a milligram of radium cost about $70,000. Now the same quantity may be purchased for $30,000. In the treatment of cancer, radium is used in two forms; first as the element and second as radium emanation or radium gas, usually called radon. Radon is made in a complicated arrangement of glass and steel called an emanation plant. In this plant the gas, continually passing off from a store of radium is washed, purified and stored in tiny sealed tubes of gold, called radon seeds. In treatment these seeds are placed in the growth and sometimes left there.

Radium element is usually put in small capsules of platinum-iridium which are placed in or about the growth to be treated. The dose of radon and of radium itself can be accurately measured. Their effects are the same. Radium, radon and X-rays kill the cancer cells because the latter are constantly dividing and are therefore less resistant to the action of the rays than healthy, normal cells.

Trying To Revive Market

South Africa Wants To Make Ostrich Feathers Popular Again

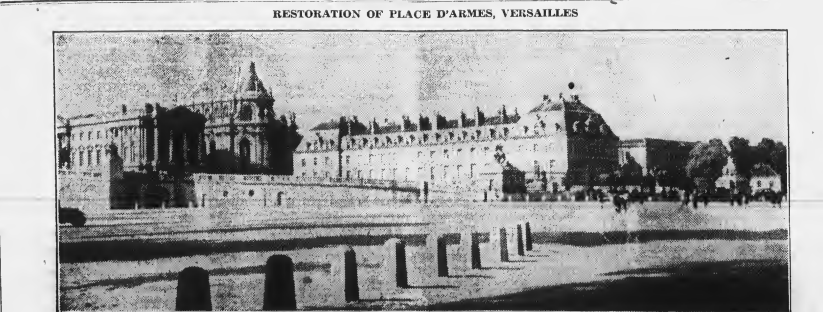

A bizarre attempt will soon be made to revive the ostrich feather market and incidentally popularize South Africa with travellers, according to F. A. Smyth, manager of the American Express Travel Service, who relates that a South African composer has just written a song to this end. The refrain of the song, "Hoo! Hoo! Hoo . . . O!" imitates the characteristic hootings of the birds. Optimistic ostrich farmers hope that it will bring the ostrich back into the spotlight and sell more feathers, as at present only about $1,500,000 worth a year are sold, in comparison with $10,000,000 worth in 1913.

WHAT HO!

"It's not a question of price," said Ernest. "That's a far enough effort considering that I started this business with nothing but a capital of twenty-nine dollars, my diploma from the MacGrunder College of Taxidermy, and six white mice. But, you see, Mr. Sloum, this is more than just a business to me. It is—"

Ernest blushed, "what you might call my life-work. Maybe you'll laugh at me, Mr. Sloum, when I tell you that the money I make here is really secondary to the pleasure I get out of doing jobs like this."

He patted the mane of the horse Tartar.

"Of course," he appended, "I don't make very much money. Barely enough to live on, as a matter of fact."

"Ernie," said Mr. Sloum, sadly, "I'm afraid you'll never be a trader. Now, if somebody came to me and wanted to buy my business do you think I'd tell 'em I was dragging one foot in the red ink? No, a-ree! I'd tell 'em I was making so much money I had to hire a man and boy to count it."

Ernest smiled.

"I guess I'm not much of a businessman," he admitted.

The shop bell tinkled.

"Excuse me," he said. "A customer, I hope."

He opened the door and permitted Mr. Sloum to pass into an atmosphere redolent with the perfume of parrots and poodles. A large, patently impatient lady was waiting at the counter. At first sight she looked like one of Ernest Bingley's more pretentious efforts in the field of taxidermy, for her ample, well-cushioned form was swathed in the brown fur of that prolific but expensive little animal, the mink.

Ernest Bingley made a courtly bow.

"How do you do, Mrs. Wyncoop?" he said.

"Hello, Armina, how's tricks?" said Mr. Sloum.

She favored them both with a nod that was one-fifth of an inch from top to bottom, and hoarse with throat.

"Wish I could stay and have a chat about old times, Armina," said Mr. Sloum, a look of malicious geniality crinkling his face. "but I got to go and sell some shoes to the folks who believe in patronizing home-town merchants. So long."

From Mrs. Wyncoop's arctic expression it was possible to glean the thought that if Mr. Sloum went to a most remote and torrid spot and remained there indefinitely it would be entirely satisfactory to her.

When the door had snapped at the rubber heels of the departing shoelast, Mrs. Wyncoop said, "Is he ready?"

"Indeed he is, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I shall be happy to have you inspect him. Will you kindly step into the studio?"

Mrs. Wyncoop unleashed a lorgnette and gazed upon the fruit of many weeks of painstaking work. She said nothing. She looked nothing. By not so much as the quiver of a chin did she signify approval, or disapproval. Ernest regarded her expectantly, nervously. Still she made no comment.

Finally Ernest faltered, "Well, do you like him?"

In a throaty alto Mrs. Wyncoop said,

"There's a patch of hair on his—errrr—torso which needs smoothing."

"So sorry," said Ernest. He had ruffled the hair in scrambling off the horse. He smoothed the offending patch. He waited, but no word of encomium was forthcoming.

She replaced her lorgnette in its holster.

"Deliver him to The Pines immediately," she said, and turned to go.

"Excuse me, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I want to ask you something."

She expelled an icy monosyllable.

"Well?"

"I was just wondering," began Ernest, beset by embarrassment, "if you would mind, that is if you would be so good as to permit me to exhibit Tartar at the state fair next month—"

"Why, pray?"

"Well, you see," said Ernest, "I sort of thought I'd exhibit some of my work there. I've got an idea for an exhibit, a complete collection of all the birds and animals native to Iowa, mounted and arranged by me. There's a prize, you know, for the most interesting exhibit of Iowa products, and I thought I might have a chance to win it. I could use that hundred dollars, Mrs. Wyncoop. My collection is pretty complete, but it lacks a buzzard and a horse. I can get the buzzard easily enough, but horses are scarce—stuffed ones, I mean—and so—"

"You may not exhibit Tartar," said Mrs. Wyncoop. "I can assure you that Mr. Wyncoop will not permit you to. Good-day."

"But," protested Ernest, "he is my work—the best thing I've ever done—and if you've seen him to me—just for that week—"

"You will be paid adequately for your work," said Mrs. Wyncoop, "when you deliver it to The Pines. But you attempt to show our property, you show it from our attorneys, I promise you."

"But, see here, Mrs. Wyncoop, I need—"

"Good day to you," she cut in, and strode out through the pet shop to her waiting limousine.

"Oh, look out!" cried Ernest.

"You're an old witch," croaked a harsh voice.

Mrs. Wyncoop gave a sharp squint of pain and terror.

As she passed his perch, a second hand parrot, an African gray, thrust out his horny beak and nipped her on the ear.

When she had gone, Ernest gave the parrot a peanut.

Then he returned to his studio and gave the roan coat of Tartar a final smoothing.

"Good-bye old boy," he said.

He took an old olive drab army blanket from his bed and put it on the horse.

"Why," he asked aloud, "can't people be nicer?"

With the question unanswered, he went into his pet shop, and, somewhat morosely, doled out to the tropical fish their rations of ant-eaters, puffed and fed the assorted guinea pigs, love-birds, white mice and guinea pigs, then locked up and started down Main Street to see the expressman about a truck for transporting Tartar to the ornate residence of Mr. Otis G. Wyncoop.

To go down Main Street was always a bit of an ordeal for Ernest Bingley. It meant running the gauntlet of such social centres as the Daniel Boone Hook and Ladder Company, Mum's Drug Store, the New America House, and Doc Griffin's Pool Room.

With his head in the air Ernest sallied swiftly past the fire house, unobserved, for its inmates were playing pinocle while hopefully waiting for a good, big fire. He skirted the drug store without incident; in the doorway of the pool hall, lounged two young men-about-town, from whose nostrils poured cigarette smoke in as steady a stream as if they were smoldering inside them. They wore short-brimmed trigger-men hats, and their complexions were imperfect. On spying Ernest they removed their jaunty headgear and swept the ground in deep obsequies.

"Greetings and salutations, Sir Ernest," said one.

"Hi al, 'ow 'is Lordship to-day?" said the other.

Ernest, with a struggle, summoned a smile to his face.

"Hello, Joe, Hello, Chuck," he said, affably.

He hurried on, trying not to keep step with the Rogues' March they whistled after him.

In the lobby of the New America House (Rooms 51 and up) two men were embedded in worn leather chairs, idly watching the passing pageant of Main Street through the broad plate-glass window.

One of them was Harry Lewis, on the road for a New York hat house, and he was yawning, gold-toothed, at the idea of being stymied for the night in Bear Falls when he might have been taking out that red-headed cigar-stand girl in Davenport.

He was an eagle-beaked, jockey-like man in a tight-pepper-green suit. He smoked a Super-Wonder Derby (Pall Mall Style, $2.95, retail), and the stub of a cold cigar seemed a permanent part of his hairy hand.

The other lobby-alter was a native son, one of the Ten Thousand, and he had the silvery hair, the intellectual brow, the dignity and garb of a senator. His name was Samuel P. Cooke, and he had been out of work for twenty years, although his wife hadn't. Messrs. Lewis and Cooke were exchanging recipes for winning the favor of ladies met casually on railroad trains.

"What do you do for fun in this burg?" inquired Lewis.

"I'll show you," said Cooke. "Here comes the town clown."

"The punk in the comic hat?" asked Lewis.

"Yep."

"Why are those two party-larceny sheiks bowing to him like that?"

"They're kidding him."

"Some fun," grunted Lewis. "Does that pass for kidding in this dorp?"

"Just wait," promised Cooke. "I'll call him in. All you got to do is follow my lead. Get it?"

"I get it," said Lewis, looking wise and metropolitan. "Who is the say?"

"Bingley's name, Ernest Bingley," Cooke told him.

"Cuckoo?"

"No. That is, not exactly. He's bright enough when it comes to books and stuff like that," said Cooke. "But he's full of nutty notions."

"Such as?"

"Well, he thinks he's somebody."

"Who?" queried Lewis. "Napoleon?"

"Oh, no. He's not that way," said Cooke. "Just thinks he's got ancestors."

"Well, ain't he?" asked Lewis.

"Sure. So have I," said Cooke. "Only I keep mine quiet. So do most of the folks around here. But Ernie Bingley's different. The boys don't like you to be different in this man's town."

"Yeah, I noticed everybody was pretty much alike around here," said Lewis.

As Ernest passed the hotel, Cooke rapped on the window with his imitation diamond ring, and beckoned Ernest to come in. Ernest hesitated, then started into the lobby.

"Now watch me kid the pants off him," whispered Cooke.

"How do you do, Mr. Cooke?" said Ernest Bingley. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Why, yes, there is, Ernest, my boy," said Cooke, with exaggerated cordiality. "I want you to meet the Dook of Lumahire."

Outwitted The Enemy

Chinese Engine Driver Steals Munition Cars From Japanese

A story of the capture of a trainload of Japanese munitions by a Chinese railway engineer was circulated by the Chinese Central News Agency.

The agency's Chengchow correspondent said Chinese locomotive drivers were forced to operate munitions trains southward from Peiping on the Peking-Hankow Railway line and that one of them, taking advantage of absence of Japanese guards from his train, drove the entire train into the Chinese lines at Chengting-fu.

When People Felt Saker

British Prime Minister Longs For The Old Days

Prime Minister Chamberlain yearned for the "good old days" in addressing the Association of British Chambers of Commerce at Manchester.

"Everyone, I think—certainly not least His Majesty's ministers—must look back with envy on the good old days when Britain was an impregnable island and possessed the only fleet of consequence in the world, and when men, if they cast upward an inquiring glance at the sky, did so only to ascertain what were the weather prospects."

"I think that public speaking must have been easier in those days when every word was not examined with a microscope to find in it meanings invisible to the naked eye, and when a man might address his own countrymen without being accused of directing his utterances—and even his reticences—at some other nation."

New Geographical Data

Two Thousand Square Miles Added To The Map Of Canada

Four hundred and forty-five acres after the discovery of the North American continent by Columbus, exploration of portion of its terrain is still continuing, revealing new geographical data and land formations to scientists.

Two young Englishmen, R. J. O. Bray and P. D. Baird, have returned from the North, reporting that 2,000 square miles have been added to their explorations.

The explorers, two of a party of Englishmen who have been camped on Southampton Island in Hudson Bay for the past two years, came out on the Mission ship, Ste. Thérèse, after a year in the Arctic, but intend returning "down north" again as soon as possible. The party is sponsored by an English University and have no connection with Government survey parties, it was learned.

Mental Telepathy

May Some Day Make War Impossible

Thinks Psychologist

Extra-sensory perception—some people's apparent ability at mental telepathy—may some day end all wars, Dr. Charles F. Potter, author and psychologist, said in New York.

Referring to recent experiments of Dr. J. B. Rhine at Duke University which indicated that most persons were able to "read" symbols on cards which they could not see, Dr. Potter said:

"Consider, for instance, the possibilities for international peace when the technique of extra-sensory perception is fully worked out."

"Trained telepathists will supplant the present spy system. Without leaving their own country a little group of gifted 'espies' will be able to discover the plans of the enemy's strategists and nullify those plans."

"Since the essence of success in war is secrecy, when secrecy is destroyed, war will be impossible."

Gave Up Large Estate

But Man Inherits Title Whether He Wants It Or Not

George Cecil Morris, 86, who "ran away from titles" 50 years ago, apparently has been caught by a baronetcy.

Whether he wants it or not, he becomes the head of an old and wealthy Welsh family as the heir to his nephew, Sir Tankerville Morris, who died a week ago in Wales.

Morris turned down the 3,000-acre estate and baronetcy which now falls to him.

"I don't want either," he declared.

"I ran away from titles 50 years ago. I want to be left alone with my fowls."

But normally he will be the head of the family, though he need not use his title.

Placing The Blame

Mullingham was not great as a sportsman and he was out one day deer stalking in Scotland. He made a series of inexplicable misses, and, after failure at a very easy mark, he said to an attendant:

"Now, Donald, whose fault was it that time?"

Donald: "Well, the stag wasn't more than a hundred yards, and it's not my fault you missed him; and it wasn't the fault of the stag, for he stood still enough; and it's not the fault of the gun; for I ken weel it's a right good one; so I'll just leave it to you to think it over and find out whose fault it was!"

Several cakes of a "crude" soap were found among the ruins of Pompeii, which had been destroyed by eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 78 A.D.

Canada's Doctors

Latest Statistics Show One To Every 1,084 Persons

Comparatively speaking, there are not so many doctors in Canada as there were years ago. That is, physicians and surgeons. At the beginning of the century there was one doctor for every 969 of the population. The proportion gradually decreased until the latest statistics show one in every 1,084. One reason vouchsafed is that the period of training has about doubled, making the course a long and an expensive one.

Although medical science has advanced like everything else, yet the lack of medical services in rural sections is one of the greatest drawbacks in the country to-day. The population has become more urban and less rural in general character, and it is obvious that, with greater territory to cover and more time consumed in travel it takes more doctors to attend to the needs of the country than of the city. There is one doctor for every 700 or so people in the large cities, but only one for every 1,300 in the country.

In England and Wales there is only one doctor in 1,363 of the population and in France one in 1,555. The situation is different in two other very advanced social service countries. In the United States there is one medical man in 798, whereas in Australia there is one in 1,373.

About ten per cent of the Canadian doctors were born, though not necessarily educated, outside of Canada—five per cent in British Isles or other British countries and 2½ per cent in the United States, according to the census branch of the Dominion bureau of statistics.—Brandon Sun.

Record For Horses

Barney and Jerry, a team of 4350-year-old Belgians, weighing 4,300 pounds, broke the world's horse-pulling record at Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Ohio, September 1, when they pulled the last load of 3,925 pounds the required distance of 27.5 feet.

This is equivalent to hauling 27 tons of granite block pavement. The winners are owned by Burley Moyer of Greenleaf, Ind. Their record displaces the 3,900-pound pull made by the famous Michigan team, Rock and Tom.

"My face is my fortune, sir," she said, so the census-taker put her down as "on relief."

Little Helps For This Week

The temple of God is holy, which temple you are. 1 Cor. 3:17.

Now shed Thy mighty influence abroad.

On souls that would their Father's image bear;

Make us as holy temples of our God.

Where dwells forever calm, adoring prayer.

This temple is the church of God within every soul, the consecrated place of divine worship where alone we can worship God in spirit and in truth.

When once we are grounded in this we will have learned to live unto God above time and place, and will always have a priest, a altar and a church with us. When God has all he should have of our hearts everything we do is a song of praise, and the common business of our lives is a conforming to His will on earth even as angels do it in heaven.

Aluminum Ships Possible

But Will Be Scouted Just As Iron Vessels Were

A hundred years ago the wisemen said that iron ships would not float. That criticism was long ago consigned to the barge. September 28 was the centenary of the first iron vessel registered at Lloyd's.

The new type had no easy passage. As iron steamship was successfully launched in 1821, but it was not until 1834, when another survived a storm which broke up wooden vessels, that it was taken at all seriously. Even then the Admiralty waited until 1860 before building ironclads.

Iron has served its time on the sea. To-day the majority of ships are built of steel. And now designers are thinking in terms of aluminum, a possibility that is bound to be scouted in some quarters. Ships evolve; human nature remains the same.—Oversha Daily Mail.

It was an old Roman custom to serve a guest as many cups of wine as there were letters in his name. And we don't see how a guy named Theophilus McGillicuddy could stand it.

Every time a transport plane of one of the major airlines leaves the ground for a scheduled flight, there is behind it $50,000 of liability insurance.

JOE EMMERSON HEADS CURLING CLUB

Election of officers was made at a general meeting of the curling club on Sunday. Those elected were, J. Emerson, president; Wm. Hoggan, vice-president; A. Balloch, secretary-treasurer; executive, N. McKinnon, A. Destokel, J. Anderson, Ed. Leier, A. Gardiner, J. Naah.

This year the club will operate the curling arena, being responsible for caretaking, fuel, light and water. H. Houghton, who claims six years' experience in ice-making, was appointed ice-maker. Finances permitting, whitewashing the interior of the arena as well as repairing the roof will be done. Fees were set at $8.00.

In order to encourage youths to join the club, fees were set at $5.00 for high school students and unemployed men aged twenty years and under. Those joining the club in this manner will be placed with experienced skips and given every opportunity to learn the game.

A number of rinks have already been formed and it is entirely up to skips to get as strong teams as possible, keeping in mind that they should have at least one "green" man. The names of all rinks should be handed to the secretary as early as possible.

RUNAWAY HORSE INJURES BOY

Arne Gudmundson, 17 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gudmundson, who operate a dairy near Grafton town, sustained a broken leg on Saturday last when the horse drawing the milk wagon which he was driving became frightened and bolted. The accident happened on Seventh Street. He was taken into the home of Jack Wilson, where Mrs. Wilson summoned Dr. Coleman. First aid being given, he was removed to hospital and his leg placed in a cast.

A younger companion, Roy McLeod, sustained a badly grazed leg, but was unable to continue the round delivering milk. Howard Campbell was with them, but escaped injury.

PREPARING FOR SALE OF POPPIES

Services under the auspices of the Legion, with the assistance of all public bodies through the province, are being arranged for Thursday, November 11th, which, by Dominion Statute, is declared a public holiday.

Poppies will be on sale for a week prior to this day, and our hope is that all our citizens will wear a poppy on this day.

All the poppies and wreaths, this year, are being made in the Province of Alberta, by returned soldiers, resident in Alberta, through the courtesy of the Department of Pensions & National Health, and the head office of the Canadian Legion, the Alberta Command has been declared a sub-veteran shop, so that not only is the profit derived from the sales, but also the labor in assembling has been made available to returned men in the province. The selling is all by voluntary assistance, and the profits are spent in the locality in which the poppies and wreaths are distributed.
